WHY TOWNSEND IS FOR MR. TAFT

Senator, Here Tonight For Speech, Gives His Reasons

Senator Charles E. Townsend will speak tonight in Germania hall, Hancock, in the interest of the Republican party.

His coming is coincident with the appearance of a November number of the American magazine which contains an article by Senator Townsend telling why he is supporting the candidacy of President Taft.

The article is the contribution of the senator to a symposium written by Progressives. Senator Townsend was selected as a leading Progressive who is for the re-election of the Republican president.

It follows: Mr. Taft has served as president for less than three and one-half years and yet his administration, measured by constructive progressive legislation accomplished, is unsurpassed by that of any other president in our history.

He was nominated in Chicago in 1908 on a platform approved by the most progressive element of the Republican party and he has come nearer to fulfilling its provisions than any other president came to accomplishing the pledges of the platform upon which he was elected.

Briefly let me call attention to the records:

The tariff plank of the platform of 1908 directed the president to call an extra session of the 61st Congress to revise the tariff. It declared for a protective tariff equal to the difference in cost of production here and abroad, plus a reasonable profit to the American industry. It declared for a maximum and minimum provision in the proposed tariff legislation. This is the substance of that plank. Has it been fulfilled?

The president called an extra session. The result of the work of the Ways and Means committee of which Mr. Payne was chairman was laid before the House. The report contained the maximum and minimum provision. It also provided for a corporation tax and for a tariff board to determine the difficult task imposed by the platform of finding out what the difference in cost of production here and abroad is. The House passed the bill and sent it to the Senate. That body deliberated upon it for four weeks, during which time the president labored unceasingly to secure such changes in existing tariff rates as would make the bill comply with his ideas of what rates should be imposed. After the bill passed the Senate it went to conference. The president was in frequent communication with the conferees urging them to reduce certain duties which to him seemed too high. No one could have worked harder than he did to secure this result. Finally a bill was agreed upon and was presented to the president. It was not just what the president desired, but it was better than the existing law and he must either sign or veto it. To veto it would be to retain the Dingley law. To sign it was to reduce rates on iron products from 10 to 50 per cent; to put leather on the free list and reduce the duty on boots and shoes 40 per cent; to reduce the duty materially on lumber and chemicals, and on hundreds of other articles; to secure a corporation tax and a tariff board. I submit that he would have been less than a real statesman if he had not approved the Payne bill.

SOME WORKING GIRLS LOSE TOO MUCH TIME

Two Girls Tell How To Avoid It.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. We therefore quote from the letters of two girls who suffered and were restored to health. The same remedy is within reach of all.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"Prior to taking the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered agony every month, but after your wonderful medicine had been taken a while I felt a little better, and after taking seven bottles of it I feel that I can truly say I have no more pain or inconvenience.

"As I am out in the business world as a stenographer, I come in contact with many girls, and when the opportune moment arrives I tell them about the Vegetable Compound and I know that quite a few are taking it."—HELEN CANET, 556 Dean St.

Another Girl's Experience.

Tishomingo, Okla.—"I am a stenographer and book-keeper, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved my life. I am enjoying the best of health now, but I was suffering from female troubles and painful periods, and would have backache, headache and fainting spells. If any woman would like to write to me I will gladly answer her letter and tell her what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—MRS. MATTIE COPELAND, Tishomingo, Okla.

DOG LIKES POUND.

Brown Spaniel Refuses to Leave Custody After 48 Hour Stay.

In the course of his duties as special dog license collector, Officer Jack Wright recently had occasion to impound a handsome brown spaniel which he found running at large without a license and whose owner was unknown. The dog was taken to the pound on Tezcuco street and placed in the care of the poundmaster as provided by law. No one appearing to claim the dog, the animal was put up at auction at the end of 48 hours as provided by statute and sold to the highest bidder who happened to be Emil Sauter.

The new owner took the dog away by force but during the night it slipped its bonds and returned to the pound. Again and again, the dog's new owner has appeared and led him away but every time, inside of a few hours, he has appeared at the pound and seemed overjoyed to be back. Lately the dog has taken to following the poundmaster all over the city and every day now the dog can be seen with its adopted master.

This morning, having missed the dog, its former owner, William Mudge, appeared at the city clerk's office and offered to pay the license fee on his dog. On being informed that the dog had been sold and that he could do nothing, as the affair was strictly according to law, the ex-owner departed rather angry at his loss, as the dog is a valuable one.

WELL KNOWN EDITOR DIES.

Word Received Announcing Death of W. F. Traves in Menominee.

William Francis Traves, editor of the Menominee Herald-Leader, for several years editor of the Hancock Journal, passed away at his home in Menominee Sunday, after a short illness. Mr. Traves had lived in Menominee for the past five years, having come there from Hancock. He was one of the best known newspaper men in the upper peninsula.

Editor Traves came of a line of newspaper men. He was the son of J. B. Traves, owner and editor of the Port Hope, Ont., Times and a nephew of William Traves of the Boston Globe. Mr. Traves had been in the newspaper profession for about fifteen years and before that time was an actor. For a number of years he conducted a private school of education.

Mr. Traves was well known in Hancock and the news of his death proved a great shock to many. As a newspaper man, he ranked very high among the upper peninsula editors.

"LITTLEST REBEL" SATURDAY.

At H. Wood's Production Will Show At Kerredge Theater.

At H. Wood's production of the "Littlest Rebel" a drama of the Civil war and of the lost cause will be shown at the Kerredge theater next Saturday, matinee and evening.

The leading role in this production will be taken by Marshal Farnum who will be remembered as the leading man with the Mac-Leone players when they appeared here some years ago. The part of "The Littlest Rebel" will be taken by Miss Violet Savoy.

This is one of the heaviest scenic productions that has visited the copper country for some time. The cast includes in all thirty people.

ANNIVERSARY PLANS.

The first quarterly conference at the Hancock M. E. church will be held next Friday night at which time the plans for the anniversary celebration will be completed.

The committee in charge of the plans reports that it has been unfortunate in its attempt to secure good outside speakers. The committee this morning wrote to an Iron country man, asking him to come here and deliver the address and hopes to hear from him before the meeting Friday.

HANCOCK BREVITIES.

Superintendent Lattone leaves tomorrow to attend the state teachers' convention at Grand Rapids. It is estimated more than 8,000 teachers will be present.

George Nichols returned Sunday from a business trip to Chicago. Fred Nikkila has returned from a trip to the east.

Thomas Payne and Miss Anna Brohn were married last Saturday evening by Rev. Traub, pastor of the German Lutheran church. The young couple left for Duluth the same evening.

Mrs. George C. Bentley has returned from a visit to Northern Minnesota. A Halloween party will be given Thursday evening in the parlors of the German Lutheran church by the members of the congregation.

NEWS FROM CORNWALL

The following news items are from Cornwall exchange:

A discovery of a gruesome nature is reported from Sennen Cove. It appears that on Friday afternoon some children were playing in a sand pit between Sennen Cove and Vellan, when they came across a human skull. They reported their find, and a man named Edward John Lawson and others went to the spot and found embedded in the sand a human skeleton, absolutely devoid of flesh, and having the appearance of being buried for many years. The matter was further reported to the coastguards and the police, and the remains were removed to the old boat house at Sennen Cove. Pieces of rotten wood surrounding the remains suggested that they had at one time been enclosed in a coffin.

A message from Tol-Pedn gives brief particulars of the disaster which occurred there in the early hours of Monday morning, in a dense fog. Involving the total loss of a French schooner, the drowning of the seamen's boy, and the exciting rescue by the local coastguards of the remainder of her crew by life-lines from the rocks. It appears that the vessel in question is the French schooner Epiepie. She struck the rocks about 200 yards W. N. W. of Tol-Pedn and became a total wreck.

It would appear that the captain and five of the crew clambered on to the rocks when their vessel sank, and from here they were taken off by means of the life-lines by the local coastguards. Unfortunately the schooner's boy was drowned.

The Epiepie, which hails from Triguier, is 58 tons net register and was built in 1903. She is owned by Messrs. Chevalier L. Chevalier.

Another message states that the crew came ashore on a ladder.

Albert Arthur Smith 51, described as a tailor's cutter, was charged with stealing a revolver and its contents of Graham Hunter, of St. Ives, a sentence of twelve months' hard labour was passed.

As prisoner was being removed from the bar he tried to strike Sgt. Eve, who with remarkable calmness went close up to the prisoner, and as he tried to strike him a second time gripped one wrist as the warrior gripped the other and assisted to remove prisoner.

St. Just has had a very successful season, winning the Sennen and District League cup for the second time in three years, and is also in second position in the West Penwith League. The first eleven played 20 matches winning 13, losing 5, and drawing 2; while the second eleven won 7 of the 15 matches played, drew 2 and lost 6. The 1st bat will be civer by Mr. J. T. Angwin, and the 2nd by Mr. A. E. Bennett.

Thomas Henry Simons, miner, of Phillack, was on Monday at Camborne remanded until Wednesday afternoon on a charge of stealing a portmanteau from a motor car at Hayle on Saturday.

About 5-30 this (Monday) morning news was received at Penzance that a big steamer had gone ashore at St. Loy Cove, near Llanmora, but the comparative inaccessibility of the spot rendered it very difficult for a long time to obtain any particulars.

Later it transpired that the vessel was the French steamer Aberystwyth, of Lorient.

A dense fog had hung round the English coasts for the previous two or three days, and on Sunday morning power by damming the River Rhone.

The wind went further to the southward, and the fog completely enveloped the English Channel, rendering navigation most perilous.

The Aberystwyth is a steel vessel, built in 1883. Her port of register is Lorient, her gross tonnage 1083, and her net tonnage 599. She is owned by Societe Holz et Charbon.

The first annual meeting of the Incorporated English Beet Sugar Producers' Association was held in London on Friday. Mr. W. J. Henson of Pilsen, Hayle, the vice-president, said that last year three hundred Cornish farmers were induced to experiment in growing beet, and the product offered proof positive that their labors would be rewarded. The next question they had to face was that of manufacture, and in order to prove that the proposition was a commercial one, he and his friends had decided to see whether the Cornish beet could be sold in open market. From the little seaport town of Hayle, near St. Ives, they consigned 100 tons to the Continent, where it was bought by a factory at highly satisfactory price. They had in Cornwall a climate which enabled them to grow sub-tropical plants in native luxuriance, and they had not so far as to select a site at Hayle where he hoped they would soon have at work the first sugar beet factory erected in this country. Before the meeting the members of the Council of the association and others took luncheon together, and the tables were decorated with groups of five healthy-looking beets grown by Mr. Hosken of his land in Cornwall.

The spot where the Aberystwyth struck is in close proximity to the steamer South America, which ran ashore in a heavy fog last winter. It is stated that the crew of the Aberystwyth left their vessel and sought refuge on the hull of the South America, which has withstood the terrible storms of the past winter, and from this spot watched the fate of their vessel.

One report states that the Aberystwyth is badly holed all. She will be extremely fortunate if she escapes the fate of the South America. The Newlyn lifeboat left early for the rescue, and also the Lady of the Isles of the Western Marine Salvage Company.

A correspondent writes—Appropos to the finding of a human skeleton buried in the sands at Sennen, a man who worked with me some years ago told me a story of a nature which would account for the finding of human remains in unexpected places near the sea. He said that his father—a West-country man—of big stature, who had fought under Nelson at Trafalgar, one night went searching for flotsam and jetsam around one of the little coves in the neighborhood of Land's End, came on the body of a drowned sailor, that he carried the corpse on his back up a steep cliff path and buried it in a secluded spot without saying a word to anyone, though he mentioned the circumstance to his son in after years. As the latter told me more as an instance of his father's prodigious strength and nerve—the finding of a cliff with such a burden on his back—then apparently with any idea of the irregularity of the proceeding, it seems not at all unlikely that many another seaman has received unrecorded burial of a similar nature in years gone by, when necty of sentiment was not the most striking characteristic of the sea-side dwellers in West Cornwall.

Paris expects to secure 200,000 horses or three days, and on Sunday morning power by damming the River Rhone.

Eugene A. McNally is running for Prosecuting Attorney on the Democratic ticket. Mr. McNally is a splendid lawyer and an eloquent jury advocate; has a literary education and a wide experience both in his profession and with his fellowmen generally. He has been interested in a majority of the leading criminal cases tried in this county as well as in the many civil and probate cases with which he has been connected.

Mr. McNally is a polished gentleman and has always been associated with the plain people, claiming that the average man was always without affection and therefore more natural. Mr. McNally has got the reputation of never turning an unfortunate brother from his office because he lacked the necessary means for defense. He is naturally the friend of humanity and has always given his time and his money and his talent to uphold a down-trodden brother. He never requires into a man's nationality or his religion but goes upon the theory that it is man's duty to help all surviving on the mighty ship of life.

If elected Mr. McNally will make one of the best Prosecuting Attorneys Houghton County has ever had.
